Association's Mission

"To promote the welfare of the State of Alabama and of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute; to foster mutually beneficial relationships between the institute and its alumni; to foster and encourage services to the State of Alabama through enlarged educational enterprises, programs and services of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute."

These are the objects and purposes of the Auburn Alumni Association. For these reasons the Association is only as strong as the alumni taking an active interest in it.

Purpose of this issue

THIS issue of the Alumnews begins the last half of our fiscal year. It is an issue designed to give information an alumnus should know about the Association. It is designed to give a picture of the part an alumnus plays or can play in the affairs of the Association.

Some part of the activities of the Alumni Association reach each and everyone of you. Contact by mail in the case of the Alumnews and football ticket order blanks; personal letters and personal contact through meetings of Auburn Clubs are all means of carrying out the objects and purposes of the Association. The means, in size and in scope, are dependent upon the financial support the alumni give to the Association.

Alumnews may be cut

WITHOUT sufficient financial support from the alumni, the number now receiving the Alumnews will have to be cut.

Considering that the Alumnews is the only paper you receive which is 100 per cent about Auburn, many of you would dislike to see this service curtailed. Let us have your support to keep the copies rolling.

A local Auburn Club is the result of a natural desire of all Auburn alumni to do two things: to participate more fully in the life of the college, and to associate with other Auburn alumni in the same community. An Auburn Club, functioning successfully, can produce extraordinary benefits for the college, for the club itself, for the community and for the individual club members.

Clubs support Association

THE constitution and by-laws adopted by an Auburn Club requires that its members also belong to the National Association. This requirement provides funds for the National Association to maintain its staff and to provide programs when needed.

This provision in the local constitution and by-laws means that the larger Auburn Clubs help the smaller clubs obtain the same services. It costs just as much to travel 200 miles to provide a program for 20 alumni as it does to travel 200 miles to provide a program for 150 alumni. To have an alumnus of the class of '04 journey 20 miles to attend an Auburn meeting, or a carload of alumni travel 50 or 75 miles to meet with the nearest Auburn Club warms your heart and makes you thankful for those alumni who provide the means for this service through payment of dues to the Association.

Auburn alumni over the state and nation are hungry for a bit of Auburn. Our expansion of Auburn Clubs has been most gratifying this past year. Let us have your support in extending an Auburn Club to your community or other communities.

FINISHING his first year as Executive Secretary of the Auburn Alumni Association, Joe Sarver, '37, asks alumni for their active support of the Association

Varied interests

AN AIM in the heart of every college alumnus is that his school excel in the field of his particular interest. The interest of alumni are as varied as alumni themselves. In serving the alumni, the Association's program must therefore be a varied one.

It is the aim of the Alumni Association that Auburn rank high in all its fields—Instruction, Research, Extension, Music, Dramatics, Athletics, and others.

Athletics is a field of alumni interest and belongs in the activities of an Alumni Association.

The athletic interest

YOUR Association services this athletic interest in many ways. Films furnished to us by the Athletic Department are carried to many Auburn Club meetings and provide the program for the evening. In other instances films are shipped to groups of alumni to furnish them the pleasure of an Auburn evening. Films have been shown to more than 50 groups this year.

Football ticket order blanks are addressed by the Alumni Association staff for the Athletic Department, because through your support and cooperation we are able to maintain a highly accurate file on the addresses of more than 22,000 of you.

The problems of the athletic program are reviewed with you at your club meetings. The athletic director and head football coach attended scores of alumni meetings last spring and summer and many more are contemplated in the immediate future. Service to the athletic interest of the alumni, like all of the Association services, will depend upon the support given by the alumni.

Fine record of athletes

YOUR Association will soon publish the book, "War Eagle, The Tigers of Auburn." It is a history of Auburn football from 1892 through 1951. The number of copies printed will be very limited. If you purchase a copy (ten bucks per copy) look through it and study the Auburn athlete of yesteryear. What is he doing today? He's a citizen in your community, a leading citizen who has done well in his chosen field; whether it be veterinary medicine, engineering, selling or another of a host of other fields of endeavor.

Yes, Auburn has much to be proud of in its former athletes.

What about the Auburn player of today? I believe you will be interested in what courses the present players are enrolled in. The breakdown of the 1952 squad is as follows:

Business Administration, 31; Education, 42; Industrial Management, 12; Agricultural Science, eight; Agricultural Education, four; Mechanical and Aeronautical Engineering, three each; Electrical Engineering, Agricultural Administration, Pre-Veterinary Medicine, Pre-Medicine, two each; and Pre-Dentistry, Science and Literature, Pre-Law, Engineering Physics, Pharmacy.

47 Active Clubs

DURING the past year a total of 18 Auburn clubs have been organized or reactivated as the Auburn Alumni Association continued to expand to meet the demands of many enthusiastic and energetic alumni of A.P.I. Of this total there were 11 clubs in Alabama; seven were out-of-state-groups.

A total of 47 Auburn Clubs reported activity during 1951. Twenty five of these clubs were in the state of Alabama, while 22 out-of-state clubs were reported as active. Seventeen clubs reported no activity during the past year; seven were an out-of-state areas and 10 were in Alabama.

Rapid expansion

FROM these figures one can easily see the rapid increase in club activity within Auburn Alumni Association during the past year. This increase in club activity is significant because it shows clearly the expansion of the alumni program as well as the added responsibility for the Association and its officers.

However, despite the fact that 47 out of 64 clubs reported some form of activity during 1951, Auburn's club program is still in an infant stage. Most of the clubs are just beginning to realize the potential service that they can render to their alma mater. At the same time the idea of forming an Auburn club in all areas where there are at least 25 alumni is gaining widespread popularity. This means not only a stronger Association, but an added responsibility and service for the national office and the Association officers.

How to form a club

THE club phase of the Association's program takes Executive Secretary Joe Sarver Jr., '37, into his very closest contact with alumni. It is through Mr. Sarver that the clubs are formed. He serves as a "clearing house" for their questions and for all information that goes out of the Association's office in answer to those questions.

Just how is a club formed?

The secretary finds out that a group of alumni are interested in forming a club. He then attends, if possible, a meeting with the interested group and helps them make preliminary plans. Then, if his duties permit, he attends the organizational meeting and explains the structure and function of the club as well as the National Association. At this meeting he tries to answer all questions of the group. Later he issues a charter to the club, officers are elected, dues are set up, and the general program for the club is adopted. Thus another Auburn club is born.

Club activities

BUT what do these clubs do after they are formed? Their activity varies in accordance with the locality, membership, and facilities of the club. However, club activity generally includes the following programs as the basis for most operations:

1. Program speakers from A.P.I. These speakers come from all branches of the institution and help to keep the club informed of the work being carried on at A.P.I.
2. Football films with commentary by officials of the athletic department are another popular activity. These are usually shown at fall and winter meetings.
3. Socials that are usually held in the fall and summer. These socials are in the form of luncheons, banquets, fish fries, etc.
4. In the spring the club holds some activity for high school seniors. This program aids in bringing outstanding students to Auburn.
5. Participation in the program of the Auburn Educational Foundation is another activity that has gained popularity in many clubs.

Suggested activities

THE above activities are basic ones which clubs have and can use in their program to help maintain their ties with Auburn as well as an aid to the institution. Other activities include informal meetings without food; establishment of a scholarship fund for some worthy student within the club's area; sponsoring a chartered bus to bring prospective students to Auburn for the "Open House" program to be held on the campus on April 18 and 19; and the sponsorship of a "dutch" bus trip to various football games for all members and friends of the club.

Out of all these activities Auburn is not only promoted within the community, but alumni within that area are brought into closer contact with the institution as well as their fellow alumni. The members of the club begin to feel a responsibility to their alma mater as they are drawn closer to it through well-planned and organized club work.

Contact Mr. Sarver

ALTHOUGH club activity has shown a significant increase in the past year, there are still many areas where clubs need to be initiated. As soon as a town, county or other area, either in Alabama or out of the state, feels that a club can be organized Secretary Sarver should be contacted. A growing Auburn club program offers a great potential force in the building of Auburn into the South's top educational center.

An Auburn club should not just consist of alumni within the range of the club, but it should also be open to all friends of Auburn. The club, when set up on a sound basis, contributes to the community as well as to the college since it actually is an outpost of Auburn in a specific community.

Helps build Auburn

"THE dignity and the integrity of the college must be reflected in the integrity and dignity of the club, its officers, and its program," Secretary Sarver recently stated. "The purpose of an Auburn club is to bring our graduates, individually, and as an association into an informed and appreciative understanding of what our college is for, and how best they can use their organized influence to help Auburn better mankind through its educational facilities," Sarver added.

Remember that through the Auburn club program you can not only help in promoting Auburn in your community but also in strengthening the academic rating of the institution. Why not make the Auburn club in your community become a live and active tool for the building of a stronger institution?

The Association's Staff

SINCE the reactivation of the Auburn Alumni Association in 1945 the staff of the national office has expanded from a two member set-up (the Executive Secretary and one office worker) into a staff which now consists of an Executive Secretary, an editor of the Alumnews, and an office staff of four full-time workers.

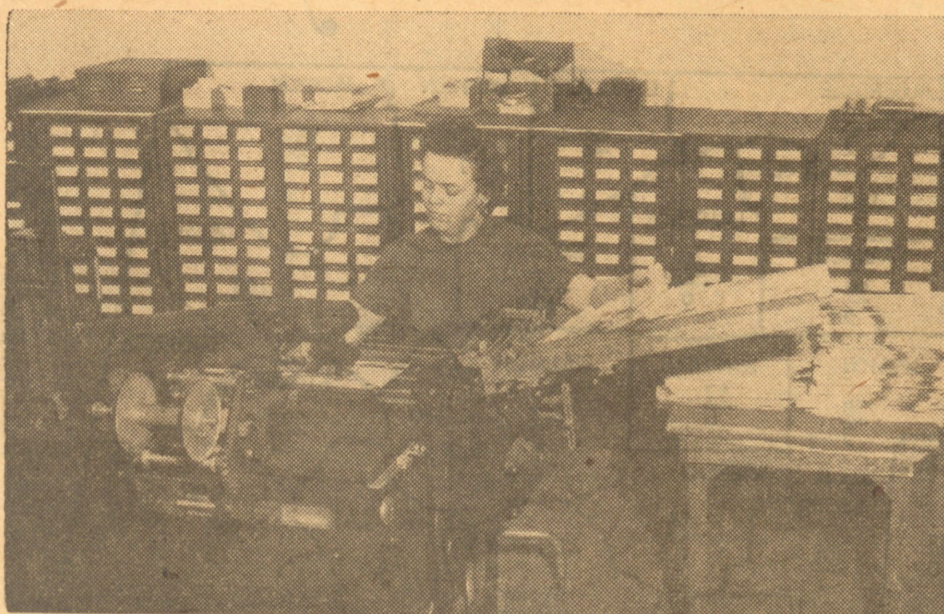

As the Association developed a larger audience to be served as well as new areas for work, the increase in personnel became a necessity. In order to serve the 22,000 former students now in the Association's files, the national office has necessarily expanded in both personnel and physical facilities since 1945.

Only 1,574 contribute

NO doubt many alumni have no idea just what the duties and responsibilities of these workers in the Association's office really are. These alumni need to know just how the office staff does and can serve them as Auburn alumni. However, at the same time they need to realize their responsibility as alumni in maintaining and promoting this service.

At the present only 1,574 alumni are paying their $5 yearly dues to help defray the cost of operating the Association's office. Included in this number are 214 alumni who have paid $100 to become Life Members of the Association.

Just what is the money going for that the 1,574 members of the Association have contributed in 1951-52? What is the office staff in the national headquarters at Auburn giving in return? This feature is written to answer these questions by pointing out the duties, responsibilities

ADDRESSING 22,500 copies of the Alumnews keeps Circulation Director

Alice W. Moore, '44, busy. Over 1,000,000 mailings were sent out during last year out-of-state meetings. He helps arrange programs and as often as possible attends the meetings of the clubs.

An example of the travel which the Secretary must do is shown by a February road trip by Mr. Sarver. He visited and spoke to Auburn clubs in Chattanooga, Tennessee; Scottsboro, Alabama; and Atlanta and Waycross, Georgia during a period of five days.

One of the most important duties of the Executive Secretary is the planning and execution of the Association's various drives for funds. He is also secretary of the active Auburn Educational Foundation. This work requires a great deal of time and effort as the Auburn office is also headquarters for the A.E.F.

Organization of new clubs, administration of drives, serving as a liaison between the alumni and the college, and supervision and administration of the affairs of the Association are the basic duties of the Executive Secretary. These obvious duties plus the countless number of every day problems make the Executive Secretary's job a very time demanding position.

The Alumnews

THE position of editor-in-chief of the Alumnews is filled by Ed Crawford, '51, who was appointed to the post in November, 1951. As editor of the Alumnews, Editor Crawford is faced with a joint undertaking, one shared by the editor and by each one of Auburn's alumni.

The alumni share jointly in the publication of the Alumnews because they furnish the editor with a great deal of material for publication. In letters, magazine stories, clippings, conversation, personal visits... the stories come in. It is then the business of the editor to collect them, evaluate them and prepare them to be turned back to the readers.

The editor is responsible for writing, editing, proofreading, copyreading, and publishing all material that appears in the Alumnews. It has always been Alumnews policy to publish news concerning all three branches of the college as well as student activities, sports, and alumni events in a fair and accurate manner. By adding variety to the coverage area the Alumnews strives to become alive and readable.

The layout, style and format of the publication is the responsibility of the editor. Barton Perry, '44, serves as photographer for the publication. Other important assistance in the publication comes from the News Bureau and from A.P.I. Sports Publicity Director, Bill Beckwith, '52.

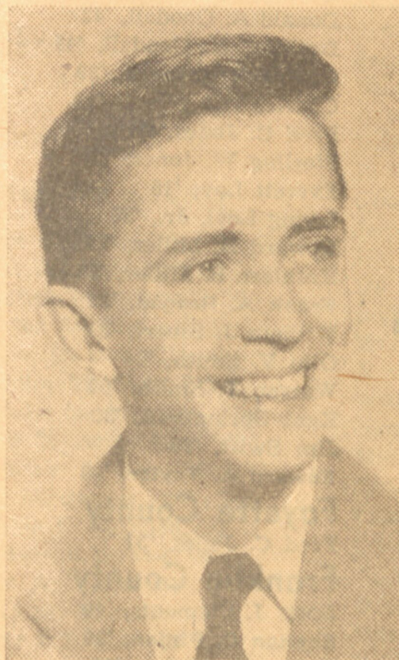

Various columns are written monthly by representatives of Auburn's three branches—Instruction, Extension and Research. The editor is responsible for editing all material—written, pictorial and artistic—that appears in the issue.

At the present the Alumnews is sent free of charge to every former student in the Association's files. It is published 12 times a year, and is one of the few alumni publications to be printed each month of the year. It is also one of the few that is mailed to all former students regardless of whether they have paid their yearly dues.

An efficient staff

THE tedious task of sorting and filing the letters, questionnaires, news items, and other information that come into the Association's office is taken care of by an efficient office staff headed by Pattie Haney, alumni records supervisor. Clerical assistants are Martha Bennett and Eunice Crump Godfrey.

These three alumni workers also handle (continued on back page) ties and services of the staff in the national office.

The Executive Secretary

JOE Sarver, '37, is the man responsible for carrying out the Association's program as the Executive Secretary. Appointed to his position in March, 1951, Mr. Sarver administers the program that is outlined by the Association's Executive Committee.

As the administrator of the business of the Association it is the Executive Secretary who is the number one representative, and, as such, the representative of all alumni. In addition to duties set up for him by the Executive Committee, he is faced with the daily problems of administration that must be dealt with.

To returning Alumni, the Executive Secretary is the college's "Good Will Ambassador." On their return visits to the campus they look to him for information and guidance around the expanding college plant. He is the man who carries out the club program of the Association. Here he is taken to all areas within the state and to numerous

Auburn's Alumni Officers

WHO are the officers of the Auburn Alumni Association? What are their duties? What are their backgrounds? How are they elected? What authority do they have?

These are questions which may arise when Auburn alumni gather to discuss the affairs of their Alumni Association. They are questions to which many alumni do not know the answers. They are questions which must be answered for all alumni if they are to obtain a real interest in the work of the Association and its work in the building of Auburn.

President of the Association is William C. "Red" Sugg, '31 who is serving his second year as the head of the National Association. He is aided in the administration of alumni affairs by a six-member Executive Committee and the past president of the Association who serves in an ex-officio capacity.

Election of officers

OFFICERS of the Association are elected at the annual business meeting held on Homecoming Day in the fall each year. Under the two-year rotation plan adopted by the Association in 1948 three members are named to the Executive Committee at each annual business meeting. The past president of the Association automatically becomes an ex officio member of the Executive Committee for the length of the term of his successor.

The presidency and the vacancies on the Executive Committee are filled at the annual meeting on Homecoming. A nominating committee submits names of alumni to fill vacancies at the annual meeting. Nominations can also be submitted from the floor.

Executive Committee

ADMINISTRATION of all affairs of the Association must have the approval of the president and the Executive Committee. The president presides over the meetings of the Association and the Executive Committee. He also appoints various committees and fills vacancies on the standing committees provided by the Constitution of the Association.

Other officers of the Association include the Executive Secretary Joe Sarver Jr., '37, and the Treasurer W. T. Ingram, college business manager. In addition, Mr. Sarver also serves as Secretary of the Auburn Educational Foundation.

Thus alumni can see something of the procedure for electing Association officers as well as the duties and responsibilities of their officers. But what of the present officers? The following sketches of these men should give alumni some information concerning the men who are now leading the Association.

WILLIAM C. "RED" SUGG, '31, President—"Red" received the Bachelor of Science degree in pharmacy at Auburn in 1931. He is the sales manager of the Atlanta Branch of The Upjohn Company and is responsible for five southeastern states. These duties have brought him into close contact and association with many Auburn alumni. At the time of his election in 1950 he was president of the Atlanta Auburn Club and a member of the Executive Committee of the Auburn Alumni Association. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Auburn Education Foundation.

Married to the daughter of the late Dean Clifford Hare of the School of Chemistry, Mr. Sugg is a nephew of Dean Redding Sugg of Auburn's School of Veterinary Medicine.

Reelected to the alumni presidency in 1951, Mr. Sugg is one of the most active presidents in the history of the Association. He has attended many Auburn alumni meetings and takes a keen interest in helping Auburn develop as an educational center in the South.

BILLY DUNCAN, '43—The youngest member of the present Executive Committee, Billy is now vice president of the Duncan Cotton Company Inc. in Decatur. He has also served as president of the Morgan County Club.

Mr. Duncan was first elected to the Executive Committee for a one-year term in 1948. He was reelected for a two year term in 1950.

He is married to the former Molly Vineyard, '45. An outstanding student at Auburn, Billy graduated in textile engineering in 1943.

KEN LOTT, '41—Ken is a graduate of the School of Science and Literature. He is a resident of Mobile, is married, and the father of two children.

He has served in several offices in the work of the Mobile Auburn Club. He was chairman of the Alumni Committee that recommended Shug Jordan when Coach Earl Brown's contract was terminated in 1951. He is a member of the

Spring training climax

A-Day Set For March 8

BY BILL BECKWITH

A-DAY, the football spring training climax, will be played in Cliff Hare Stadium on March 8, when the Orange squad battles the Blue. Always a free-scoring contest, the 1952 classic will be a preview of what's coming in the fall.

All members of the forthcoming season's team will be in uniform with the exception of basketballer Vince Dooley and the injured End Jimmy Long.

With all proceeds from the game going to the A-Club, Shug Jordan is expecting a larger crowd than he had last spring when 8,000 fans attended the game.

Auburn alumni will see many new things Saturday. They will see flashy Charles Littles running from righthalf, a new position as he subbed at fullback last year. Charles Hataway will be at fullback after a year as the regular righthalf. (Littles and Hataway are what Jordan hopes will be his "touchdown twins" in the coming season.)

Georgia prep star

ALTERNATING with Hataway at fullback will be the highly-touted Ray Mercer, perhaps the outstanding back in the South last year while playing at Moultrie, Georgia. The five-foot, seven-inch, freshman made all-everything in Georgia, plus landing a post on the high school All-American team. Ramblin' Ray will wear the Orange in his debut.

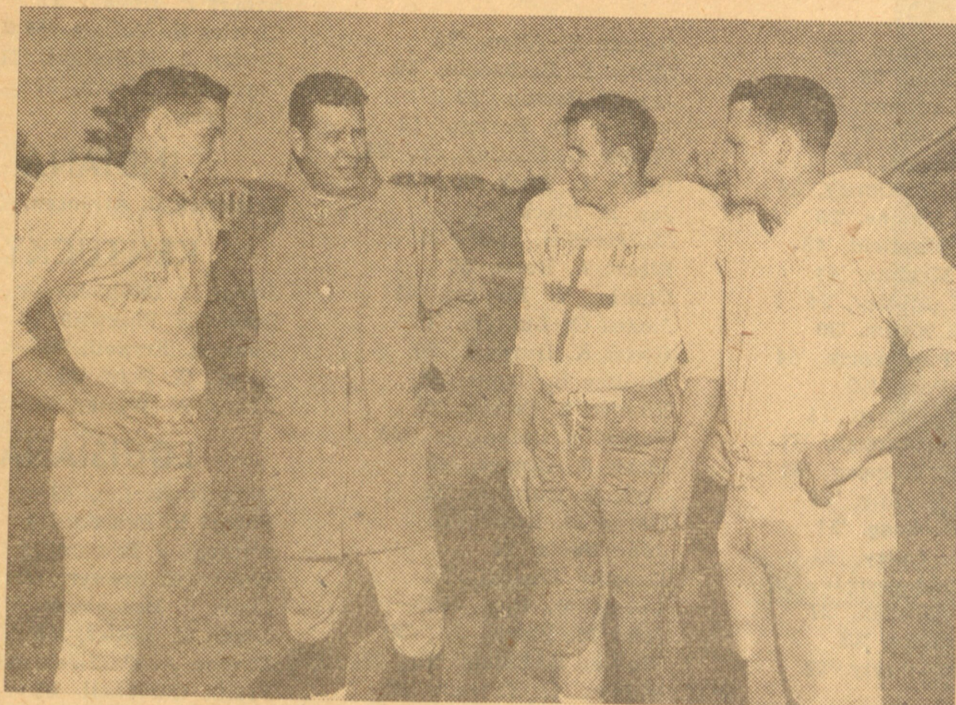

Another "first" for the alumni will be sophomore Bobby Freeman trying his hand at quarterback, after being one of the four freshmen to letter in 1951. The Decatur strong-boy made the switch look like an important factor in next fall's plans with his dashes on split-T plays.

Few men in the SEC will have a substitute like Littles has in diminutive Jackie Creel. The most improved runner on the team, the 138-pound sophomore, has attempted to make a track meet out of spring training. Not since the glorious days of 1932 has Auburn seen such speed as the Dothan flash displays.

These are just a few of the things in store on A-Day. This will be Auburn's first wholesale performance of the widely spreading Split-T formation that has contributed to the success of Maryland, Oklahoma, and Mississippi.

McMurry returns

AUBURN promises to have one of the best defensive ends, if not the best, in rugged Bill McMurry of Birmingham. The light-weight flankman intercepted

CHATting with Coach Ralph Jordan during a recent spring training session are three Plainmen backs who will be counted on for a great deal of service five passes and played a major role in Auburn's early success last season, before a knee injury stopped him for the remainder of the campaign.

A new team will take over at the offensive tackle posts on A-Day. It will be Rogers and Rogers, sophomore brothers from Birmingham. This will be one of the few brother combinations that Auburn has had. George will man the right side while Don will be on the left side. Both boys stand six-feet, five-inches and weight in the neighborhood of 225-pounds.

The defensive tackles are the same as they were last year, Bill Turnbeaugh has streamlined his shape down to 250 pounds, while Hanks is still dangerous with his 228 pounds. Both boys have been drilled on offense and will be on opposite teams.

Bob Burns, shifted from fullback, makes up for the loss of All-Southeastern selection Fots Bauer at guard. The burly 195-pounder has been most impressive to line coach Shot Senn during the 20 days of spring training. Returning bulwarks at guard Ed Duncan, Foy Thompson, Bill Kilpatrick, and Ted Neura. Senn might have the two smallest defensive guards in the conference in 170-pound Al Brame of Montgomery, and 180-pound Kilpatrick of Bessemer.

Center is stronger

JOHN Crolla was the only center lost through graduation. Returning are Ed Baker and Guy Bruce, both lettermen. A newcomer might get the call ahead of

both veterans should he continue to improve. He's sophomore Jack Locklear of Fort Payne.

With Lee Hayley gone via route of marriage, the offensive end posts will be handled by Jim Lofton, Erich Sauerbrey, Preston McCarty, Bill Keller, Jim Hall, and Bill Larrimore. Defensively, Jimmy Cline, Jim Crouch, and McMurry are standouts.

The big question is: Who will play left-half? At this point of the game, senior Rigas Coptias holds the high cards but he must cope with sophomore Dave Middleton, veteran Bobby Jordan, and Freeman. The high-stepping Coptias has been three years in the making, and should be ready to make a "do or die" battle. Second only to Creel in the sprints, the dark-skinned native of Americus, Georgia, blossomed out in the late stages of last fall.

Middleton could handle the job if he can stay off sick call. No slow poke, the Birmingham youth has shown a lot of ability as a breakaway runner and pass receiver. B. Jordan will play his last year at 150-pounds and will be improved over last fall, when he ran first string the last four games. Freeman could bottle up the works for the three candidates should he be moved back from quarterback. The strong-boy is also a defensive gem.

Defensive backfield

AUBURN'S defensive backfield returns stronger. The combo of Dooley, Bobby Duke, and Freeman, plus linebackers Bruce and Locklear are back but might not hold their posts with such men as Percy Alford, Ed Newby, Ed Norton, Claude Saia, Shorty White, Jimmy Fullington, and Herb Jordan carrying the load this spring.

Comparing positions, the Orange team looks best at fullback with Hataway and Mercer; the Blues might have righthalf with Duke and Creel teaming against Littles and White; Coptias, B. Jordan, and possibly Freeman make the Blues better at lefthalf. The Blues also have more strength with Spence and Freeman at quarterback, but watch the Orange team's Joe Davis.

The Orange has a slight edge at end with McMurray, McCarty, and Lofton, while the Blues ends are Sauerbrey, Cline, and Hall. Turnbeaugh, G. Rogers, and Jimmy Whatley make the Blues better at defensive tackles. A major battle will be on at guard where the Blues feature Burns, Thompson, Kilpatrick, and Bo Hunt, while the Oranges have powerful Duncan, Brame, Ted Neura, and George Atkins. The Blues have linebacking strength at center with Baker and Locklear, backed by Dan Clayton. The Orange team will counter with Bruce, Glen Pugh, and upcoming Cliff Boyleston.

Tigers win 14

Cage Season Successful

WINNING three out of their seven games with rough SEC foes during February, Auburn's sophomore-studded Tigers finished the 1951-52 season with a surprising record of 14 wins and 11 defeats. This record was indeed surprising as the team was picked to win no more than .500 per cent of their games in the pre-season forecasting.

Opening the February schedule, the Tigers dropped a 62-60 decision to Alabama's resurging Crimson Tide in the Sports Arena on February 2. A field goal in the last eight seconds gave 'Bama the victory after the Tigers had come from behind to knot the score at 60-all.

The following week end the Tigers blasted two SEC foes in the Sports Arena as they took Florida 61-52, and Tennessee, 60-55. Inman Veal led the attack against Florida with 20 points, while Veal and Bob Fenn, Tiger sub center, set the pace on the next night to stop the highly-touted Vols.

In their last home game on February 13 the Tigers dropped a 58 to 50 game with Georgia Tech. This was their third loss to Tech and proved to be one of their worst performances during the season.

Journeying to Louisiana the week end of February 16 and 18, the Tigers split a pair of games with Tulane and L.S.U. They dropped their game with powerful L.S.U. by a 70 to 64 margin, but dumped Tulane on Monday, February 18, by a 63 to 61 score. Veal and Roger Weldon, the team's only senior, set the pace for the Tigers against Tulane, while Vince Dooley with 15 points and Fenn with 14 starred in the L.S.U. loss.

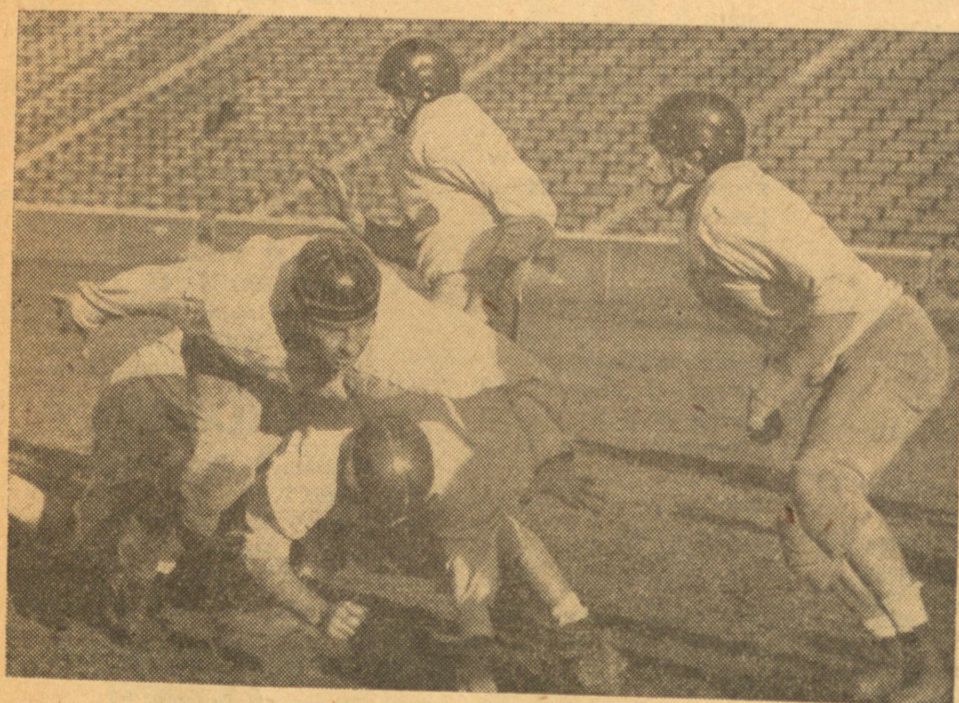

Scoring 25 points in the third period Alabama's Crimson Tide dumped Auburn 63 to 50 in the final game of the season at Tuscaloosa.

With the end of the season the Tigers finished eighth in the SEC. Thus Joel Eaves completed his third season at the helm of the Tiger cagers with an overall record of 43 victories out of 73 games. Their SEC record for three years rests at 24 wins and 22 defeats—the best for three consecutive seasons for the Tigers since Eaves led the cagers in the late thirties.

Plan to attend 'Open House'

A GIGANTIC two-day program will feature the first annual "Open House" to be held on the campus on April 18 and 19. Tours, demonstrations, exhibits, parades, a dramatic performance, a horse show, a baseball game and a dance will be held on the program. The April Alumnews will carry a full program of the event. Plan now to return to Auburn for "Open House" on April 18 and 19.

TIGER linemen are shown getting in some rough drill in a recent blocking session during spring training. Working his team overtime, Coach Jordan has been forced to speed up spring drills due to the SEC rule limiting spring work

The Staff

dle all of the correspondence, typing, filing, and in addition, perform the thousand-and-then-some daily chores that keep the office routine functioning smoothly.

Other duties of these workers is to see that all correspondence is handled promptly, that address changes are made, that a historical as well as an address file is maintained on all known alumni, and that the Association reaches as many alumni as possible.

Circulation

THEN when the wheel has come full turn and all the filing, writing, research, editing, proofreading and other duties that are necessary to put together an Alumnews are completed, the Circulation Director Alice W. Moore, '44, steps in. Her job is the responsibility for addressing every one of the 22,500 copies of the Alumnews. She also maintains a file to be used in the addressograph machine in the mailing of the Alumnews and other mailing pieces.

She keeps the addressograph file up-to-date and makes all changes and corrections each month. She also maintains a file by counties in Alabama, by states, and by large city areas for mailing material to certain groups.

Services cost money

MORE than 1,000,000 pieces of mail are handled by the staff every year. In addition to the mailing of the Alumnews numerous letters, questionnaires, bulletins, Auburn Educational Foundation material, and Athletic Department information are mailed out through the Association's office.

The alumni office occupies space in the Textile Building. Plans call for the office to be moved into the Union Building when it is constructed. A lounge is maintained for all visiting alumni.

From this feature it is hoped that alumni may obtain an idea of the volume of work that is being carried on in the national office for them. This service is maintained to draw Auburn alumni closer to their alma mater and to enable the alumni to stay properly informed on all matters pertaining to Auburn.

Yet, the administration of the office, the publication of the Alumnews and maintaining the services of the staff costs money. In order to insure a continuance of these services all alumni should realize their responsibility in receiving this service. The Alumni Association is built around a joint responsibility; the responsibility of the National Association to provide adequate services for all alumni, and the responsibility of the alumni to aid financially in maintaining these services.

Secretary's Report

Textile Engineering, Building Construction, Veterinary Medicine, Aeronautical Administration, and Civil Engineering, one each.

Auburn can well be proud of its athlete of today. "War Eagle, The Tigers of Auburn" proved to us that today's Auburn athlete will be among you as a solid citizen in the future like the Auburn athlete of yesterday is among you today.

We extend our sincere thanks to the loyal alumni listed in this issue. Their interest in and financial support of the activities of the Alumni Association is greatly appreciated.

There are scores of other alumni who have just forgotten to join in 1952. We hope you will join now and be included on subsequent lists which will appear in the Alumnews.
